

How do we reach $3 million? It's simple: One donation at a time!

Our journey toward a building begins today. We understand that it will require the support of many individuals, with some making significant contributions. Just as it takes a multitude of volunteers to accomplish our mission, we have faith that this capital campaign will see remarkable generosity from our community, as it has in the past.

One donation at a time: While we recognize that only a select few may have the capacity to occupy the top slots in our fundraising efforts, we equally value the importance of broad support. While generous individuals or organizations play a vital role in making substantial contributions, it's the collective partnership of many individuals at varying levels that truly propels our mission forward.
